CPD 2014

A programme of structured seminars to meet your CPD requirements

Schindler

Schindler proudly sponsors the RIBA CPD Programme

As a professional, your Continual Professional Development choices are in your hands and must be relevant to you, your circumstances, the level of detail and expertise you require. Your CPD not only relates to your position in the practice, future career prospects, business development, but also the time and money you can afford.

Thinking about your CPD in this way means you make it a true personal, professional and business tool. Carefully selected CPD will allow you to plan your career trajectory, strengthen your business, pick up rewarding new skills and acquire specialisms in an increasingly competitive market.

Attending CPD courses has enormous, potentially lucrative benefits, helping you:

- Maintain and develop your professional competence
- Ensure your skills are up to date
- Enhance and improve your performance
- Be competitive and employable
- Manage and plan your professional future
- Develop transferrable skills
- Enhance your client offer
- Increase your potential and widen prospects.

While the RIBA has rules for the minimum training you need to achieve as a chartered member, virtually any relevant learning activity can count as CPD. However, we recognise that you are busy and will be looking for a convenient, trustworthy, well priced and high quality way to attain some of your Core Curriculum CPD.

If you are an RIBA chartered member, your annual requirement includes 35 hours of CPD input and 100 points assigned to activities as a means of self-reflection. You are required to undertake at least two hours of study in each of the 10 RIBA Core Curriculum topics each year. Remember, it is mandatory to record your CPD online in your personal profile using the CPD recording manager.

The RIBA CPD programme has been created with this in mind and can be used to achieve your full structured CPD requirements by simply purchasing a Club Ticket. We are confident that the Club series of 10 seminars, covering all RIBA Core Curriculum topics throughout the year, will represent the ideal solution for your practice.
